I had to do a brain dump, because the man who has been threatening me online involved my daughter tonight. I'm reporting him to the full extent of the law, but I also want you to know what the last few weeks have been like for me and for my family. I've blocked him everywhere, but he sees everything I say and do, and will inevitably see this too.

So thank you for everyone who has stood up for me, it means a lot. This isn't uncommon among journalists, but is seeping into the independent journalism community. And it's terrifying.

Thank you LC - Silence is Complicity, Cash Flow Collective, Jason Gael, Summer Willan, Rays, and many others for tuning into my live video! Join me for my next live video in the app.

I did my research. I now have my third Mastiff. All were rescued or rehomed. Maybe I was lucky. No training was necessary as they all exhibited innate protective behaviors. Assess the situation before reacting, always positioning themselves between me and the door or any possible avenue of approach. Patient and quiet. Not to mention the intimidation of their sheer size and appearance. Good fit for this senior woman. Also low energy, good for long naps.

How do you control all the slobber and drool flying through the air, on walls and clothing?

I had a special sponge mop I used to only use to clean slobber off my ceilings or walls from the juicy fur kids! It was never used for the floor so I didn't have to worry about dog hair or dirt getting on the walls or ceiling that way. Clothing, you just toss in the washer. 😊

OMG! I absolutely LOOOVE Mastiffs! I fostered a couple of them when I used to be involved Great Dane rescue years ago! They are awesome doggos! I always had five to seven big fur kids in my household! Four of my own Danes and then varying numbers of fosters! It was heaven!

I had always had Collies, think Lassie. I had always had more than a passing interest in Bullmastiffs due to their designed purpose. So when I needed a protection type dog my first choice was a Bullmastiff. My first was a newly spayed adult who had whelped several times with minimal history. She was amazing. Second choice was English Mastiff. After I lost my Bullmastiff I had an intact male English Mastiff. My daughter moved out with him and a couple years later I got my current EM at age 3. No better breed for me.

You, of course, are aware of the attacks on Ms @Alisa Valdes-Rodriguez that reached the point of her having to flee the United States with her ailing father, son and pets.

My hope is that you will not begin being attacked.

If you follow her journey into Mexico you'll have seen some reports of the health consequences she is experiencing due to the attacks.

I'd suggest you find a gun shop with a training range and start posting targets as you become highly proficient with a 9mm handgun.

And, make it clear you will not hesitate to use it if you are attacked.

That may all sound raw—but for those of us who have every intention of 'standing our ground' in defense of our Republic, it's just the way it's going to be for a while.

You are essential to holding accountable before the law some of the most evil creatures to have existed.

I am impressed by your courage, your investigative and communication skills.

Thank you for your patriotism and your compassion for all those who are suffering.

Understood.

These words from Ms @Leslie Olsen - are a solid way to approach the issue:
https://substack.com/@same01/note/c-2842109377ra-182d48&utm_source=notes-share-action&utm_medium=web

I've been an expert marksman since I was 12 (and had the medals to prove it).

Haven't owned a gun since I was 23 (long time ago).

Have spent my life trying to repair, save and provide care for others - why I became an MD (long time ago).

If I were alone and had to confront the horrors that Ms @Alisa Valdes-Rodriguez, Ms @Ellie Leonard, Mr @Pete Buttigieg ... and their families are sadly experiencing, my likely response would be to maintain status quo.

But, like them I have loved ones and dear furry friends, so if threatened in any way, I'd be on the firing range several hours a week refreshing my skills—which are way more than how pull a trigger.

Most importantly, I would not hesitate a nanosecond to use those skills.

My hope for you and your loved ones is that you are spared any threats or worse.

Appreciate your sentiment.

Of course Ms @Ellie Leonard wouldn't—when encountering non-lethal threatening situations which hopefully will be the only situations she encounters for the remainder of her lovely life.

That said - my recommendation stands.

Ellie, just watched you reach out tonight and very glad you are making it known to all of your supporters what you've been experiencing. If it would make you feel better now, I thought you might let us know if you'd like contributions to get a home security alarm system and would ask for contributions from everyone to provide that. I will contribute and believe that others will too. With enough people we could do it for $5/mo to help you and your family feel more secure until the perp is fully exposed for the harassment. There must be, should be laws about this? No one should live in fear from a deranged person's actions. Maybe a Go Fund Me or something more private? Please let us know how we can help. You are a very Important person in The Resistance and Dearly LOVED by many for your exceptional work and dedication to Saving Our Democracy. I was struck by the emotional depth of your "brain dump." I have had a number of threat stalkers, and deeply empathize. What really struck me was your comment about "really want[ing] this to go away," and I was reminded of the period from 2016 through 2020, when it was an unending, nonstop, day in, day out barrage of insane, pseudo-mob-like protection rackets against US, and it finally did go away, after four years. I was on high alert for four years. Little did I know that it would start up again via yet another GOP steal.

By the way, I remember Eisenhower. He was the last ethical Republican president, and I'm pretty sure the last legitimate GOP president. So here we are. You talked about a microcosm. Indeed. My heart goes out to you. Others have said it much better than I could. I just had to respond and talk about what "my" brain needed to dump. But hopefully, we'll get through this too. The sooner we get through this, the sooner we'll have a chance to fight the real troubles rather than these racket-, greed- and hate-based attacks.

You are the epitome of 'the good guys'; know this. Together we will succeed.

Ellie, I hate seeing them doing this to you and your family. And trying to create chaos in your community and instill fear and uncertainty in safe spaces.

If he/they can discredit you or smear you or instill fear in you—the fearless investigative journalist who is digging so deep into these crimes and not letting these pedophiles off the hook continuously pushing to hold powerful people accountable for the sex crimes they have committed—maybe you will stop. But you have friends. And a New York attitude to manifest.

Stalking and cyberbullying are the most messed up crimes. Psychological warfare aimed to terrorize with such little that can be done. F*ck the patriarchy. Big love to you & family xoxo

This is horrible to experience, you feel like you're being hunted or mobbed.

This person sounds like not all his pistons are firing. Glad you reported him. The response is dismal, what every abused woman receives: We can't do anything until he hurts or kills you.

Hope you have security; cannot remember if you reported this locally, believe you should if you have not already done so.

One good service I highly recommend which I use that wipes your personal data from data brokers (how stalkers and scammers obtain your address) is DeleteMe (www.joindeleteme.com). Incogni (www.incogni.com) is another reputable data-wiping service.

These services are $100 to $120 annual subscription fee and they continually wipe your data from hundreds (and I do mean hundreds) of data brokers, who publish information about your family as well. Every quarter they send a report of all the data removed from specific data brokers (and new data brokers pop up all the time).

These services keep your personal information much safer, especially as a journalist (public figure). You will receive far less spam calls and texts as well as protecting you from predators.

DeleteMe sends out quarterly newsletters with cybersecurity tips and information. In these cyber-threatening times we need to know cybersecurity like defensive driving.

I use European encrypted email accounts for my financial information. Protonmail is a good example.

Maybe it's not far fetched to set up a Go Fund Me for money in case you need to go to an unspecified location at times. Remember you are becoming higher profile and the people you are researching are well connected. I've been thinking about that election worker volunteer in Georgia who was harassed so terribly. This guy may be a light weight compared to some of these other guys. Please be careful. My thoughts are with you.

Be a grey rock. Seeing you shvitz over his comments makes him feel powerful. Don t directly engage ever. Epstein protectors may have hired someone to intimidate you and discredit you as you are reading Epstein file email and victim testimony daily. You and Alisa are stand outs. You both are being targeted and intimidated to stop what you are doing.

Hi from the UK. You used the word 'manic', I think you're spot on. He sounds deranged which makes him dangerous. So I hope you're taking steps to up your security, taking all the kind help you are being offered. You are not being dramatic, your reactions are healthy. It sounds like you're ready to step away from the 'grieving' stage, the stage of disbelief that this is actually happening into the 'NewYorker' wtf stage! Good! Stalking is a crime here, it's about time it was there too but in the meantime, we hear you, we believe you, we care about you, we deeply appreciate your work and never feel bad about brain dumping, it's essential. oh, Ellie, it is a pattern that the cult uses. I doubt this guy is on his own. Speaking publicly and exposing the pattern is what needs to happen. Also, form a group of everyone who is experiencing this so you aren't by yourself. Keep records of what occurs and expose them. They use horrific accusations to isolate and blacken your name so you lose your influence. I would say "stay safe" but even if you are physically safe, you aren't psychologically safe. And we as a community need to come together to prop you up as you do the work of the angels.

Dear Ellie, I'm hoping your Pulitzer Prize down the road will erase all the shit you're going through!

All us women, well let me be MORE EXACT, the majority of women have faced some kind of sexual or physical harassment in their lifetime, from minor to major, and you are shining a light on this, and therefore you speak for all of us. Thank you Ellie.

You mentioned that he's opening websites, and is posting on Twitter, so this raises the huge enormous problem effecting not just us personally but also the decline of democracy--an unregulated internet.

You also mentioned how the police responded...which reminds me of how you try to get a traffic light put up in a dangerous intersection and the bureaucracy responds with, "not until it proves there's a real danger," meaning a few people have to really suffer before they put in a traffic light, and usually its only because of citizens acting day in and day out to get it done.

From a psychotherapist point of view- you have been graced with an enormous talent that you use daily, called critical thinking skills, and you're also lucky...and I use that word deliberately, that your ability to empathize is intact, and has not succumbed to bitterness, anger, or numbness, or pathology, like we see with Trump, his regime, and the people who support him. When you join a cult, critical thinking skills, if there were ever any, to start with, go out the window, and are replaced by emotional need.

This is where I think, maybe?, you need to understand better...It's not only a matter of getting tougher and building a big city internal shield, vs Montana.

It's understanding that you are applying logic and compassion to someone who cannot and in many cases will not process that. You might as well be speaking Chinese. They don't understand your reasonable attitude, your kindness. You are speaking another language, and the more you speak it, the more you give them ammunition to respond back in a pathological manner.

You cannot reason with criminals, or pathology, you cannot be kind to them, or try to "figure them out," "work with them," "calm them down," "get them to stop," unless you're a therapist working within the confines of a place where they are locked up.

But I also think, as any investigative journalist will tell you, keep your children away from your work, no interviewing them, and do not allow any photos of them on the internet...on Facebook, or in social messaging, etc.

The bottom line is, this person or people, want you to stop. That's it. You know you are effective because of it, and I'm so glad you're getting good advice.

Ellie, I just saw this. I am so sorry some oddball is harassing you. This is probably something someone like that person is having a fun sadistic time.....just collect and report what comes to you and do your best. And don't let this person get to you. That's exactly what it sounds like that he? wants Just keep copies and keep sending them to the police and FBI. You are a great journalist. Don't let it stop you from being who you are, and doing the excellent work you do. What appears to me is that this person has a sadist's M-O- and wants you to stop digging.....don't. You are good at writing and reporting.

I am questioning : Has this person been harassing anyone else? Can you get help to run a background check done on this person? - maybe is there some legal loophole like can you file some kind of restraining order??

It is good you told people. I'm glad you did. Because people can't help if they don't know- Keep telling people. Because you can see that you have support, and keep copies so everything stays documented. Let a good lawyer help you since they have offered- and give the lawyer copies as well.

If you blocked this person and they found a way you can't block them. Maybe Nick can help find a way you can. I hear Nick is really good at tech. Since blocking did not work- It tells me this guy is a tech person. These trolls get around everywhere, and fixate on those they can harass. Don't keep taking the bait- just do what you need to, and Get the legal help if it's been offered. I wish I could help. I do not know how- Take care. Love and respect to you. All the best. Keep doing your good work. I hope you figure this out. Stay safe.

If someone is engaging in behavior that appears threatening, predatory, or harassing, it shouldn't simply be ignored. These situations may involve serious mental health issues or other underlying concerns that warrant professional attention.

If local law enforcement has not already looked into the matter, it would be appropriate to assess whether there is a broader pattern of conduct that could pose a risk to the community.

There may also be other avenues beyond criminal enforcement. If the conduct involves a property or location that is creating an ongoing disturbance, local zoning officials or code enforcement may be able to determine whether any nuisance ordinances or municipal regulations apply.

The goal should be to protect the community, ensure the law is followed, and, where appropriate, connect individuals with the medical or mental health intervention they may need.

You need private help. Professional consultation. Remember law enforcement has been complicit. Remember, the person who stands to lose the most controls all the resources. I don't follow everything you do, but I believe Virginia's instincts should be your guide. He's not dead. Sending prayers, love and light 🌟🙏. This was inevitable. Evil is a real thing. Sorry to be harsh. I'm just hopeful you can find someone who knows and understands the realities of this network. I do not mean this statement as mean as it sounds: you are being naive. Wake up.

Ellie,
I am sorry about what you and your daughter are going through. I have no idea who this punk is, and I really don't want to know. But he's the type of guy who you just want to put a boot in his right ass.

With most of these MAGA morons, their moral status is 20,000,000 miles below whale shit. They take kindness for weakness. So, you have to tell them to STFU and crawl back into the sewer they crawled out from, because that's the only language they understand.

In this moment...what can we do? If you are not a paid subscriber, pay for your subscription. This is not just a threat to Ellie! This is a threat to EVERY one of us. Now is the time to act. No one should live in fear for exposing the Epstein Cover-up! The use of her daughter crossed a serious red line! Hell no. Another thing we can do is go down and give a thumbs up to the comments that support this reporting. It takes a minute, but it is a show of solidarity. Act! We are ALL in this so show support! Please!

You are being victimized. You have followed up with authorities. The fact that you have his ID, is important. I think the lawyers who you have contact with, can advise you on the legal side. If he threatens you physically they could advise you on restraining orders. Is it possible to flip this picture? Make his threats public, make this transparent. At home add layers of security. CCTV for your house, alarms etc, maybe ask subscribers to donate to help. He is generating fear. To deny you a voice. This is also an attack on your subscribers. We all have a stake in this threat. He needs to know that his actions will come back to him, and any associates. We are in this together!

Just a reminder, it's not your drama. It's his. All the thrashing your mind is doing, even the fear of asking for support but needing support, is similar to any survivor of any sex crimes or harassment and stalking. We are reporting crimes that we did not commit, and which often don't make sense. Your fear is valid. Our fears are valid. Reluctance to speak and the need to speak are simultaneously valid. FYI: as a survivor, I cannot listen to journalists who think they are different from the survivors they report on. Sometimes a slip of the tongue reveals pity or "not me". No one is immune. Survivors didn't do something wrong or deserve it. Secondary wounding has a huge impact on perpetuating victim blaming, silence, shunning, othering... the whole "just world fallacy" that lets perpetrators escape accountability. Stalking can be very isolating. And extremely dangerous. Speaking out to your community—not to the predators—matters. Trust your instincts. Frankly, I'd trust Montana to persevere, and I trust you to navigate through the net being cast.

 Winter East Brown THE RADICAL NOTION · 1d · Edited

The way you get revenge from people like that is by ignoring them. I know it sounds trivial, but he gets pleasure out of making you feel anxiety and fear. He wants a reaction from you so don't give it to him. There's a term in the therapeutic community called "Grey rocking" and it's a method of dealing with people like this. Playing dead essentially. Laying still as a rock and not reacting until they get bored and find something else to do.

Because if you react in any way to him he will see it as he has succeeded with his tactics and continue.

Stalkers are often narcissists. I have had stalkers through out my life on and off. They see people that are strong and doing positive things and want to steal their fire. They can be quite dangerous so please be careful.

Trump is a narcissist and he stalks people as well, but using him is as a reference is a good reminder of how far these people will go to be seen as powerful while they do harm to others. They lie, cheat, abuse, and some kill.

The whole study of narcissists began when psychologist wanted to understand Hitler, so when people talk about narcissist and others, brush it off as dramatic, it's important to take it seriously. These people often surround themselves with cult like followers that enable their behavior which makes it all the more difficult to get accountability and they will use those folks as tools to reach you, like the flying monkeys straight out of the wizard of oz that the wicked witch used. "Flying monkeys" can be nearly as problematic as the stalker because they believe they are doing the right thing to help get justice for them.

Again, please be careful. Freely use the "block" function for protection and get cameras installed around your property. At one point I had people coming to my door in an organization I had been a part of when one of the members turned on me and accused me of locking her and her daughter in my basement. :O! That was wild!

I got my windshield and passenger window smashed in once by a man that was unhappy that I would not go out with him after he was leaving flowers on my car days before.

There's been others too and it started when I was 14, and I'm 54 now. Several Ex's that wouldn't go away, a couple that still won't.

When you're a good person and full of empathy, they see you coming like leeches or hungry mosquitos. Heck even leeches and mosquitos let go when they're full. But not narcissists because they are never full.

Don't stop being you.

This is frightening for you. Reading into what you are saying, this person is manic. Do not try to rationalize with him as you would a normal person, it will not work. Do not think about this logically. Do not respond at all. I've had manic attacks myself. You think you know more than anyone else because you've made connections in your brain no one else sees or understands. It is not based in reality. It is hard to explain to someone who is entirely logical (which I normally am). Nobody will believe this guy over you. Do not give him any more attention than you already have. He has learned that this is getting a response and that is what he craves.

I would take the offer of free legal advice asap, so you know what information would be required to sue him, instead of just saving everything. In addition, take what they say at the Reading Room to heart. You are not the only one, but that doesn't mean you try to find the others. He already has too much space in your head.

I hope this advice helps. Please stay safe.

Ellie, I just started reading a new book and looked up the author, who was awarded a grant from the center for investigative journalism. Have you ever looked into that? I just did a quick google search here's what I found:

Top grant opportunities to explore include:

The Fund for Investigative Journalism (FIJ): They offer FIJ Regular Grants of up to $10,000 for reporting expenses, as well as FIJ Seed Grants of up to $2,500 for preliminary reporting, open records requests, and travel. These grants are explicitly available to independent reporters and freelancers, making them ideal for Substack projects.

The Pulitzer Center: They offer Pulitzer Center Reporting Grants that are open to independent journalists. They fund in-depth, high-impact journalism projects and place no restriction on the publishing platform.

RealClearInvestigations: They award reporting grants (up to $20,000) for ambitious, investigative projects. Grant-supported work is meant to be published on RealClear sites, but authors often republish the investigations on their own Substacks as well.

We need independent journalists and I guess we all expected the Trump administration to finally figure out how the American people are actually getting true information and send out their instigators to try to discourage and eradicate them. They are using the same method to frighten people away from voting, frighten us away from peacefully demonstrating and finally just scare us into submission. We can't let them do this. I think sharing what is going on will make it harder for them. Listen to those with experience and be safe.

Reporting and talking about it is about safety and you're protecting future victims as well by using your voice. Documentation is super important it creates a defensible record. You are not overreacting you're protecting yourself and your family and potentially future other victims! It's horrible you have to go through this I had a stalker one time and I was carrying boat loads of paperwork and proof of documentation and court orders for 7 years! If you're in Houston, I'd be happy to teach you some self defense and go the gun range and teach you to shoot accurately. Please remember the scum loves to cause fear. Stoicism says that the worst thing that can happen to us is death, but that's going to happen anyway. We cannot escape it, but neither can anyone else. In the Tao de Ching it says "Why do you threaten the people with death, seeing they have no fear of it". somewhere it says that the best defense is a good offense. The POS is a coward or he wouldn't be hiding. I personally have terminal cancer. It's not curable, but for some strange reason I'm in remission. Every day is a good day when you're dying. Today could be my last before the cancer returns, but until then, I'll keep going in my Psychedelic Hearse, until I can no longer, but I won't ever detour for cowards.

[Insert expletives here], this is turning into a real Wolfgang Halbig -type of situation for you! (& others, as you say) Let's hope it resolves in some way similar, for him at least.

I'm reminded of the SCOTUS decisions from a few years ago, DeShaney in late 80s & Gonzales a few years ago, that there really is no recourse in asking police about potential threats because the court decided their job is to prosecute after someone inflicts harm not to prevent anyone from inflicting harm. Great, right? Halbig is a footnote here bc in the recent suit by survivors of the Margery Stoneman Douglas shooting against police & school security a Fed judge reaffirmed that SCOTUS opinion.

Must ask whether any of your former clients in that wider popular culture world that you were engaging might have some useful advice (in addition to the legal advice you're getting) they're not busily using AI to do the job you used to do so expertly for them. I can't imagine this is new territory for some of them, & perhaps as a professional courtesy someone in that group might have more useful insight.

Good luck with this insanity.

Unfortunately I think you may be somewhat unrealistic about the number of whack jobs that exist out there whose Lives have essentially become the internet. The work you do to support the Epstein survivors is very commendable however you have opened yourself and your family up to all forms of harassment from all kinds of "types"

I think you should be careful because ignoring these types may not be nearly enough. The NEW FBI may not be too disposed to help someone so dedicated to the Epstein survivors.

You put it all out there ...maybe a little too much .
You may have thousands of Substack supporters but you are not just opening up to them .
Remember that .
I am a Boomer and much less inclined to " spill my guts " anywhere, let alone on a social platform .
